Holocaust Memorial Education Day

At Mosaic

By Jane Harrison

Holocaust survivor, Helen Aronson, one of only 750 Jews who miraculously survived the Lodz ghetto, spoke to a hushed audience of 49 pupils who attended Holocaust Memorial Education Day at Mosaic Reform on February 8th.

She spoke movingly of her father, who was tragically gassed at Chelmno concentration camp, together with all of her home-town's children, whom he had volunteered to accompany. She also described her lucky survival, and that of her mother and brother, who were all slave workers.

Based on the Northwood Holocaust Memorial Education Day, which has united a number of synagogues and reached out to over 3,000 youngsters in the past decade, the day included a Holocaust Memorial Trust film and workshops where youngsters were encouraged to take part and think about all the aspects of the Holocaust.

Helen was born in Pabjanice, near Lodz, Poland on 24 April 1927. In May 1942 all the Jews from Pabjanice were evacuated to the notorious Lodz ghetto. Helen, who went in, at the age of 12, with around 200,000 people, said: "It's a miracle that I am alive. At the end we hid in an underground bunker. It was twelve below zero and we had no food."

She said she raised a plank and stared into the face of a Russian soldier, on the very day she was about to be killed. She said: "I saw the graves that were ready for us. He said to us: 'the war is finished and you are free.' I cannot describe that moment."

Her poise and girlish giggle belie the trauma and horrors she faced after a childhood she said was "sweet and carefree," adding: "It is not easy for me to record five years of hell in 45 minutes." She said the minute the Germans entered her town, only two days after declaring war on Poland, the "mayhem started." She spoke about the segregation of people who were unable to work, the old and disabled and trams arriving to take them away. She said: "There was screaming and shouting, people crying. It was a most terrible sight."

She was told she would be safe if she worked hard in an almost bizarre situation. She said: "We had money, concerts, hairdressers, but at the same time people were dying in their hundreds from hunger and illness. Every so often there would be transport for people sent away, we were told, to work in Germany. When the orphanage closed and all the children were sent out in lorries, some called my name, something that will stay with me all my life."

She said the aftermath was difficult. In 1946 she was brought to London by an

Holocaust survivor Helen Aronson

Mosaic Reform rabbi, Kathleen de Magtige-Middleton, who welcomed everyone and thanked everyone involved in the day, said: "What a privilege it is to have a Holocaust survivor here to share her story. We want you to remember her words when you leave here and tell your friends and family what you have heard today."

"In the future, when you come across negative stereotyping and prejudice, remember Helen's life story. All of us are unique in some way or other. We all value people for being who they are. When those differences are not valued, then discrimination creeps in and can get out of control."

During the workshops youngsters were told Holocaust Memorial Day aimed to create a better, safer future. They explored why the Holocaust took place, who collaborated and who simply stood by and how the Jews were stripped of their dignity and identity to de-humanise them.

At the end pupils, from Preston Manor School, Wembley, John Lyon, Harrow-on-the-Hill and Queen's Park Community school, Brent, wrote their feelings and what they had learned on postcards which were passed on to Helen who lit a memorial candle during a minute's silence.

Here are some extracts from the postcards that the pupils wrote to Helen:

uncle, with no English, and eventually married George Aronson, also Polish, and has two daughters and two grandsons.

She has lived and worked mostly in London, except for a few years in the 1950s, when her husband worked in Nigeria. Helen spends much of her time talking to schoolchildren about her war experiences. She is active in the Association of Jewish Refugees and Age Exchange, which recently produced a play and a film of her life, acted by children.

She said: "I hope that my survival, and teaching children from different backgrounds and nationalities about the horrors of World War II, will remind them that we all must be tolerant, and seek out tyrants whose aim is to kill, for no reason at all."

"To have a verbal explanation from a survivor was truly amazing"

Rayaan, The John Lyon School

"It really showed me how poorly people were being treated and how their human rights were taken"

Adam, The John Lyon School

"You made me realise how important it is to not take my family, home etc for granted. I have also now understood how simple words can lead to such disastrous events"

Saira, Preston Manor

"You should not discriminate people for who they are or be a bystander"

Ayah, Preston Manor

"I learnt today that experiences from the Holocaust should help the modern world to prevent this from happening and no matter what races, gender, sexuality everyone should be treated equally"

Siddeeq, Preston Manor

"I myself am from the Darfur region of Sudan and have seen the horrors of genocide. I admired your courage and bravery of sitting at the front and speaking"

Jewish refugees and the Cypriot internment camps

By Michael Reik

On Thursday 19th January I was invited to hear Ms Eliana Hadjisavvas make a presentation to the London Jewish and Cypriot Community. She spoke as part of a Masters Degree she had taken at Birmingham University on the camps, during the period 1946-1949.

This was in the presence of the High Commissioner of the Republic of Cyprus, the Israeli Ambassador, Mark Regev, and Richard Veber, senior Vice President of the Board of Deputies.

My own personal interest centred on the fact that my aunt and uncle had gone to Palestine (from the UK) on a ship not untypical of 'The Exodus', and had been captured by the British and detained at these camps in 1947. They were only released after Palestine had been partitioned into independent Jewish and Arab States at the UN vote in November 1947.

ON A SERIOUS NOTE

Watchtower over the Cyprus internment camps

In 1939, the British Government decided that Jewish immigration to Palestine would be limited to 75,000 over five years. Any additional émigrés would need Arab consent. At the end of the war, the British agreed to issue only 1,500 certificates of entry each month. However there were many illegal immigrants (a number trying to arrive by boat) and from August 1946 these were sent to the camps set up in Cyprus. (Out of interest, there were also two other camps – one in Mauritius and the other at Atlit near Haifa)

Eliana explained that there had been 12 camps set up in Cyprus by the British from August 1946 to January 1949. 53,000 people were held in the camps during the three years. In fact 28,000 Jews were still being kept at the camps when the Jewish State of Israel was established on May 14th 1948.

For those in the camps many had only been liberated from the Nazi concentration camps two years earlier, so to see watchtowers and barbed wire again brought back horrendous memories.

Conditions were harsh, with poor sanitation, overcrowding, lack of privacy and shortage of clean water.

On the positive side, 850 couples married in the camps and 2,000 children were born there. 80% of the camp prisoners were aged between 13 and 35. And 400 Jews died in the camps.

In January 1949, as the last 11,000 or so Jewish Internees in Cyprus – mainly men of military age – evacuated to Israel, an unspecified number of Jews who had escaped the camps and had remained at large in Cyprus, turned themselves in, so they could be sent to Israel with the last internees.

We are all descended from refugees...

By Lindsey Cohen

Some Mosaic members may have seen the publicity concerning South London Liberal Synagogue's plan to turn part of its shul into a flat to house a refugee family, as it has made headlines across the UK and Israel.

The Observer ran a lengthy article, which is available on its website. South London

Chair Alice Alphandary told the paper: "This is a very personal issue for a lot of our members. There is a sense that we as Jews have benefited from sanctuary in the past. For example, my father was a refugee in the 1950s. Now we want to repay that welcome to a new generation."

Danny Rich, the senior rabbi of Liberal Judaism and co-chair of the National Refugee Welcome Board, was also quoted in the article. Danny said: "Liberal Judaism has been a leading partner in the campaign to bring Syrian refugees to Britain. We have done so not only because our own history reminds us of the fate of families whom the world abandons, but because the single most repeated ethical injunction in the Hebrew Bible is: 'You shall love the stranger because you know the experience of being a stranger in the land of Egypt'."

£50,000 needs to be raised to refurbish a disused caretaker's flat in the synagogue building.

The issue was raised at Mosaic Liberal's last Council Meeting, and Council decided unanimously to donate the sum of £250 as a start to fundraising in our community. By the way, there is a connection with SLLS as our member, Nathan Godleman, is Student Rabbi there.

I urge you all to support this refugee project.

Please contact SLLS on link to make a donation

ON A LIGHTER NOTE

Famous people involved with shuls

By Edwin Lucas

HMS is indebted to Stoke-on-Trent Hebrew Congregation who has lent them, on long term loan, a Sefer Torah. Without the man in this picture it might never have happened and we in the wider Mosaic community, as well as in every congregation in the UK, are all indebted to this man. He became responsible for our safety, long before CST came to help the communities and he has made going to shul safe, be you a walker, a 'walking talker' or a driver.

He was Jewish – something I only learnt today – and he laid the foundation stone at Stoke-on-Trent shul.

The question is 'who should lay the foundation stone of our new home at Mosaic?' It is never too early to think of the future and I pray that 2017 may be the year when the dream becomes a reality in our minds and hearts. I wish the Building Group well in their endeavours and I look forward to a 'Palwin' toast in the coming year.

To put you out of your misery the man in the picture is none other than Lord Belisha of belisha beacon and highway code fame.

Mosaic Walk in Literary London

Sunday 19th March 11am

Covent Garden

This short circular walk in Covent Garden is certainly one of the most pleasant areas in which to linger. The walk will include the haunts of many literary figures, as well as the club that regularly dips its hands into a pot of honey provided by one of its most famous members.

The walk will conclude with lunch (optional) in the Covent Garden Piazza. Numbers are limited for this walk, so please contact John Ashmele or e-mail john@ashmele.co.uk for further information as soon as possible.

There is no fee for this walk, but a suggested donation of £5 to a Synagogue charity would be appreciated.

We hope you will enjoy taking part in Mosaic Walk, but please remember that everyone takes part at their own risk and that Mosaic and its representatives are not responsible for any injuries, loss or damage that may occur during the walk.

Friendship Club

FILM MOSAIC

At 8:00pm on Tuesday 21st March

BROKEN WINGS (15)

(Knafayim Shvurot 2002)

This powerful Israeli/BBC Co-production and multi-award winning film tells the moving story of how a Jewish family reacts in the face of personal tragedy. The unexpected death of the family patriarch throws every member of the Ulman family off course. Preoccupied with their own misery, the family is barely a family anymore. When another tragedy strikes, will they be able to support one another? (Hebrew with English Subtitles)

This month, voluntary donations will go towards Mosaic's new Audio Visual equipment.

Mark, Mike and Jo

From Alan Solomon

Three members of the Kabbalat Torah class of 1982, at what in their day was still known as Wembley Liberal Synagogue (now Mosaic Liberal), who have kept in touch over the years, recently met up again at Westminster. Left to right are: Mark Bennister, still a member of the shul and Reader in Politics at Canterbury Christ Church University; Jo Coburn, now a member of Ealing Liberal Synagogue, daughter of Mosaic Liberal member Senga Coburn, and a regular presenter of 'Daily Politics' on BBC Two; and Mike Solomon, a member of Belsize Square Synagogue, son of Mosaic Liberal members Janet and Alan, and a doctor of clinical psychology.

From Lawrie Nerva

On the passing in the Knesset of the Outpost Legislation Bill

Israel's Knesset has passed the outpost legislation bill, a disastrous piece of legislation which retroactively legalises the building of settlement outposts and housing units on land privately owned by Palestinians in the West Bank. Up to 4,000 housing units in settlements and 55 illegal outposts, built without Government permission on private land, will now be given retroactive approval. Senior Israeli Government ministers have described this as the first step towards the annexation of the West Bank and the end of the two-state solution.

Many in the UK will be appalled at the current Israel government action and the likely consequences and I urge those so concerned to use their own method of communicating with the Israel Government to register their views.

From Gideon Fiegel

Thanks for good wishes

To Rabbi Frank and all our friends: Heartfelt thanks for all your warm and kind good wishes on the occasion of my 90th birthday.

Brainteaser

Compiled by 'Toastmaster John'

"The day before yesterday I was 45 and next year I will be 48."

This statement is true on only one day. What day is my birthday?

(If you can't wait until the April edition for the answer, then send an email to the Editors)

The answer to last month's question: BAGG is William the Conqueror (1066, based on A=0, B=1, etc), so BEJC (1492) is Christopher Columbus.
